

Think Feminist - Trailer Transcript

What has power got to do with feminism? What exactly is the patriarchy? What are feminist movements and how do we build them? Most of us think we know the answers, but if you'd like to learn more, then join me on this podcast!

I'm Srilatha Batliwala, Senior Advisor at CREA, a feminist human rights organisation based in India, led by Southern feminists. I'm the host of 'Think Feminist' - a podcast that explains fundamental concepts of feminism. We look at feminism through many lenses – as an ideology, a set of beliefs, for analyzing social problems and as a social change strategy to overcome them.

I'll be joined by activists from all over the world whose work on gender and feminist leadership has set benchmarks and created breakthroughs. In each episode, we'll hear in their own words, their stories from some of the biggest feminist movements of our times. Join me to get a deeper understanding of feminism and how the feminist approach challenges power to overcome injustice.

You can stream, download and subscribe to 'Think Feminist' on all podcast platforms. So join me to explore what it means to 'think feminist' and break down concepts from patriarchy to power!
